

WATER TREATMENT

Potable Water System Operation

Ecotec is the only name you need to remember when it comes to all your water treatment and system operation needs. You can rely on our reputation as the premier provider of water treatment services in the Hudson Valley region to offer recommendations and solutions that are right for you as both residential and commercial clients. The services we offer run the full gamut – from equipment selection and installation, to operation and hassle-free maintenance of your equipment. We handle it all, from water sampling and analysis to troubleshooting and servicing of your equipment.

Testing/Sample

Our team of professionals can perform a full array of water sampling procedures and water quality testing parameters that are compliant with all Federal, State and local municipal requirements. We provide services for both individual well water and public water supply systems. Tests are performed to determine the bacteriological, chemical and physical quality of raw water with respect to regulatory health and environmental requirements. Additional sampling and testing at the point of use may be required to determine the efficacy of any installed treatment systems.

Reporting

We use only NELAP/NYLAP certified water testing laboratories and certified test results may be provided to the Client, Health Department, Building Department and other required agencies as needed or required.

Service

Our service team is second to none. We offer all levels of service and a variety of equipment, and we can customize our maintenance plans to meet Client specific needs. We can service and maintain most all makes and models of existing water treatment equipment. We are also NYS certified for annually required Backflow Prevention Device Testing per 10 NYCRR section 5-1.31

Treatment Options

Based upon the results of any water quality testing and the presence of nuisance or other contaminants in your water, the Ecotec team is there to offer the best and most cost-effective solution for your situation. Our years of experience make us uniquely qualified to handle any situation that may arise. Ecotec prides itself on its timeliness, quality of work and customer service. Call today to learn how we can provide you a worry-free experience.
